Science Situation/Helm

We are in standard orbit around a moon. An away team has been ordered to go to the surface and find out where a strange signal is coming from and what is sending or transmitting it. The away team is unable to use the transporters because of some disturbance.

What can be done to get them to the surface?

Fighter Squadron CO

You are on a routine patrol around a star base when your sensors start acting weird. They pick up between 1-3 unknown craft periodically. Nothing is known about these craft. As you watch your sensors it appears that the craft come in range and back out again.

What do you do?
